Presented by the South Carolina PBA & The Police Benevolent Foundation, Inc.

Krav Maga, ("contact combat" or "close combat") is an eclectic hand-to-hand combat system developed in Israel. It was derived from street-fighting skills developed by Imi Lichtenfeld, who made use of his training as a boxer and wrestler, as a means of defending the Jewish quarter during a period of anti-Semitic activity in Bratislava in the mid- to late 1930s.

All proceeds benefit the Police Benevolent Foundation, and they are tax-deductible.
